After a speech by Mr. Jephcott, in which he told the bride and bridegroom how sincerely the dent of the United States. ### In the White House.

During President Buchanan's residence in the White House the Prince of Wales was his guest for five days. This visit renewed the pleasant intimacy between the English queen and the fair young American, which was marked on the part of the former with pleasant remembrances from time to time. One of the interesting events recalled by Mrs. Johnston of her life in England was the ceremony at the University of Oxford, when her uncle and Alfred Tennyson received the degrees of doctor of laws. The demonstration, always boisterous on the part of the students, was on this occasion directed largely towards the beautiful piece of the American minthe beautiful niece of the American minister.

Her Marriage.

The marriage of Harriet Lane and Mr. Henry Elliott Johnston of Baltimore took place in 1868, after a long engagement, Miss Lane being unwilling to leave her uncle, who, in his old age, became more and more dependent upon her companionship and care. The great sorrows of her life following the death of her uncle were the deaths of her husband and their two young sons. Her married life was spent ostly in Baltimore.

In historic old St. Paul's Church, Charles and Saratoga streets, in that city, there is a beautiful memorial window on the northern side of the edifice which Mrs. Johnston had placed there in memory of her two sons. Besides this she founded in the Church Home, on North Broadway, in their memory a free ward for children. Her home in Washington, after several years of retirement and travel following her loss of family, she came to this city for the winter season, subsequently buying and remodeling the house at 18th and I streets, which was her last residence.

But this ever comes, to soothe and to bless,

The depth of my sorrow tongue cannot tell
At the loss of one I loved so well.
And while he lies in peaceful sleep
His sacred memory I shall keep.
Gone, but not forgotten.
BY HIS LOVING WIFE.

Gone in the best of his days;
Blighted in manhood's bloom;
Torn from the hearts that loved him,
To sleep in the silent tomb.
And we who linger only know
How much was lost two years ago today.
BY HIS PARENTS.

He shall sleep, but not forever,
In that sad and lonely grave;
Blessed be the Lord who taketh,
Blessed be the Lord who gave.
BY MAMMA AND PAPA.
